Lucifer (BNHA COTE)

1. Cover
2. Title Page
3. A/N
4. Prologue
5. Chapter 1
6. Chapter 2
7. Chapter 3
8. Chapter 4
9. OC information
10. Chapter 5
11. Chapter 6

Lucifer (BNHA COTE)

Lucifer (BNHA COTE)

by Overlord_End (Overlord_End)

Villain Ayanokouji Kiyotaka Rare updates for this due to lack of ideas, of course, if I am able to think of decent ideas, I will write this story more

Reads: 18331 | Votes: 642 | Comments: 403

First Published: 2021-07-07T14:47:44Z

Last Updated: 2023-06-20T23:16:27Z

A/N

Reads: 2949 | Votes: 45 | Comments: 21

So, I have all of a sudden thought up of a second quirk to give Ayanokouji. The problem is, it is too OP. He's original quirk is already OP, but this quirk would make him basically unstoppable. The quirk is basically something related to him.

At first, I thought of giving him 3 other quirks because Midoriya will be having 8, and will be the strongest hero later on. I want to give him a rival enemy so yeah. The other reason will be a spoiler, which would probably happen later on, and not everyone is okay with spoilers. For those who wants to know the second reason and don't mind spoilers, I will put it in the comment section beside this paragraph.

So, the quirk I thought of is 'Reverse'. The use is basically when Ayanokouji touches his opponent with all five fingers, their quirk will either stop working or backfire on them depending on his opponents quirk if he willed it to.

I can't think of a drawback though. If you got any ideas of a drawback, I will gladly listen.

If it's too OP for some, there's a few ways:

1) I can change his original quirk. But that would mean I have to change the previous stories and I have to change the original idea I was thinking of for now.

2) Just have 1 quirk, which is the original.

3) Give him 3 other quirks. You could give me some quirk ideas.

4) Others

I just wrote this because I thought of the quirk, and did not want to waste the idea. I still have no ideas when I would update so sorry to disappoint those who were hoping for one.

Prologue

Reads: 3108 | Votes: 86 | Comments: 74

Kiyotaka POV

I would like to pose a question. Is society equal? Most say that all people are born equal. But my answer is no. People are not born equal.

In this society, if you are not born with 'quirks', you will be laughed at and bullied. Even if you get a quirk, if they are weak, you still get bullied and laughed at. If you get a powerful quirk, people get jealous. However, if you get a dangerous or scary quirk, people avoid you or badmouth about you.

This society we know today are clouded by false prejudice. Everyone relies on people we call 'heroes', but what isn't known, is that some heroes do darker things than what people thought they were, hiding behind a false cover. All heroes mostly care about are the same things: Fame, money, the number 1 spot, or because they think it's cool.

Their first thought when they want to become a hero is never to rescue people. Sure, some thought of that. But that is only through the influence of other heroes.

It isn't just heroes. Society in a whole, is rotten to the core. People thinks that what villains does are evil, but that's not true. All villains, or at least most of them, does 'evil' things because of what happened to them and for revenge.

Flashback

The White Room. That was the place which my father, who was the former number 1 hero before All Might made. It was created in secret from the government, and information on it were kept confidential. Inventors and instructors there were forced to keep silent about it. When one tries to expose it, they would be assassinated. The purpose of the White Room, was to create 'perfect humans'. Used as lab rats were children ranging from the age of 4 onwards. This place was what the children see when they first opened their eyes. Some of them were 'test tube babies'.

The White Room was created even before I was born. However, the White Room never produced what it wanted until it's 4th Generation. To all the who lived within those white walls, it was also known as the Demonic 4th. In the first 2 years of experiment, all except one had all been killed due to the sheer intensity of the programme. The reason for that? It was not only because I was the Director's child, but because I was also born with a powerful quirk: Time.

My quirk allows me to manipulate time to a huge degree. (I won't go into details because how his quirk works would be shown bit by bit) That was enough reason to make the experiment harder. After those 2 years of grueling experiment, I was hailed the 'White Room Masterpiece'. After that, the amount of training and experiments got harder to see how much I could take before breaking down.

At the age of 12, I have escape what had been called my 'home'. I was not sad about it since I after escaping that place, I have gained my freedom. As I was lost on the street, no one cared. They all only said, "The heroes would save you. Just hang in there." Or they just ignored me, only giving me a side-glance.

No one even considered to help me until him. Dressed in a business suit, he introduced himself as 'Mr Shigaraki'. Seeing me homeless, he offered me a place to stay at.

"No one would help you here. This society is rotten, only relying on heroes. What they don't realize is that most heroes only want fame and money. They care for no one. Come with me. I can offer you a new home. A new family." Even though I was wary about him, I did not want to die. Taking his hand, I followed him.

"What is your name, young one?" He asked.

"... It's Kiyotaka. Ayanokouji Kiyotaka." I answered softly. Nodding his head, we walked in silence.

He led me to a pub, where I spotted two people. One is a boy a little older than me, one was made out of mist, with a metal bracket around its neck in a bartender outfit.

"Kiyotaka. These two are your new family." He introduced. "This boy here is Tomura Shigaraki. My adopted son. The bartender is Kurogiri." I gave them a short bow, which they returned with a nod.

From the moment I met my new guardian and my new family, my life changed drastically. I became a villain.

That was also when, I began my purge on the hero society.

Flashback end

Timeskip

Five years has passed since Mr Shigaraki, or as he called himself, All for One, had adopted me and brought me to meet my new family.

We call our group, the League of Villains. Occasionally, we would allow some villains to join, but they are all just pawns or in my words, tools. They were just there to overwhelm heroes with numbers since most of them are weak. If needed, they would be sacrificed.

"Hey Kurogiri." I greeted the misty bartender as I stepped into the pub after my day of killing heroes to pass time. This was also another way to keep myself fit and train my quirk so I would not get rusty. Hearing me greet him, he greeted back.

"How's your day, Lucifer?" Lucifer was the villain name I came up with to hide my identity. For my villain costume, I wore a hooded black cloak and a voice changing mask to cover my face (His costume is basically similar to the mc from eminence in the shadows).

"I'm good. Where's Tomura?"

"He's speaking with the master."

"I see." After a while, Tomura walked into the bar and told me,

"Master wants to talk to you." I nodded, looking more serious. There are some occasions where All for One would come by for a visit, but that would mean something very important is coming up. If it wasn't important, he would usually tell us through the television.

With that, I went to All for One's meeting room where if he comes, he would be there.

Sensing my presence as I approach him, All for One spoke,

"Kiyotaka. Starting next week, you shall be going to U.A to take the entrance exam."

What?

A/N

Like the description I posted, I will rarely update this because I can't think of a decent plot to continue and write it well. I have wrote a few chapters into it but have not posted since it sucks. If you'd like, I could post it. There will be no other ANHS students in this story.

Just a warning that there will be quite a lot of bad chapters

Should I turn Kiyo from villain to hero or stay a villain?

If anyone wants, you can continue this story. Just tell me beforehand. I don't mind.

Please excuse my bad writing. If there's some ideas you think of which I can use, you can tell me if you want, or if there's anything I could improve on, you can just tell.

Chapter 1

Reads: 2277 | Votes: 73 | Comments: 37

A/N

The chapter from now on until I can think of something unique and interesting, it would be rather boring. Please pardon my badly written chapter . It would mostly follow the manga so it you will know what mostly will happen. This chapter is a short one, will update next chapter soon.

Kiyotaka POV

I alighted at the bus stop near the hero school, UA. If I had the option, I wouldn't want to be here. But I had no other choice since this is a mission given by All for One.

Flashback

"Kiyotaka, starting next week, you shall be going to UA to take the entrance exam."

What?

"Just a second. Why do I have to go to UA? Why can't I just stay here?" I asked.

"Starting this year, All Might will be joining UA as a teacher, according to rumors I've heard. Since you are the least conspicuous and you are turning 16 this year, you are the only person who I can count on in this mission."

"I-" He cut me off.

"I know you hate heroes. But you can take this opportunity to live a 'normal' highschool life for 3 years." Looks like there's no changing his mind.

Sigh "Alright. I will accept this mission." I reluctantly said.

"Great! I have had an apartment built for you and have your particulars signed. Read it through." He told me.

Ayanokouji Kiyotaka. Age 15. Orphan. Quirkless. Never went to school, self-taught. I read through.

"Why did you tell that I am self-taught? Why not put a random school there and alter the people's memory there?" I asked since I know that All for One had the ability to do so.

"Even if I could, there is no guarantee that I may alter all of their memories." He told me. "Enjoy this highschool life, alright? Make me proud."

I nodded and left after that.

Flashback end

So here I am in this hell hole taking the entrance exam. I walked into the assembly hall where a speech was given for an hour. After that, we had to take the written entrance exam, which I held back. After all, I did not want to stand out.

After that, we had to do the practical.

"WELCOME, FRESHMEN, NOW YOU WILL BE TAKING PART IN THE PRACTICAL EXAM! YOU GUYS HAVE TO DESTROY OR IMMOBILIZE AS MANY ROBOTS AS YOU CAN!" A really loud teacher announced. "NOW, START!"

According to him, there are 4 types of robots named as easy villains, medium villains, hard villains and arena traps. Easy villains give 1 point, medium villain 2, and hard villains 3. While Arena Traps are the largest and most difficult to destroy, they give 0 points.

When Present Mic said start, everyone rushed towards the robots desperate to destroy them. I started destroying the robots with my bare hands using the martial arts I was taught back in the White Room. When there was 5 minutes remaining, I had already destroyed 30 robots: 10 easy, 10 medium and 10 hard, scoring a total of 70 points.

3rd POV: At another location in UA

Watching the screen which showed all the students' involvement in the exam, were several figures shrouded in darkness. All of a sudden, a teacher who was surprised, exclaimed.

"What?! Principal, one of the students who is doing the entrance exam is quirkless!" Hearing that, surprise and murmurs could be heard.

"Quirkless? What's the name of the student?" The short figure, who was identified as the principal asked curiously.

"His name is Kiyotaka Ayanokouji, sir."

"Kiyotaka... Ayanokouji huh?" The principal mumbled to himself as he typed something on the computer. What they saw on the screen shocked them all.

"A quirkless in second place? Impossible! And the amount he destroyed is no small amount too!" The figures started discussing among themselves. One figure in particular, was thinking about a certain someone whom he told that someone quirkless, could not become a hero. Here there was proof, that for the first time in the history of heroes, a quirkless had the potential and fighting prowess right in front of them who could compete against those with strong quirks.

Kiyotaka POV

Since I had already destroyed more than the majority, I was wondering if I should destroy a few more. I decided against it since I would attract a lot of attention which I probably would due to my high placing in this practical exam. Suddenly, the ground started trembling and at the next moment, the huge robot which was called the Arena Traps, appeared. Since there is no merit in staying here, I went to where the Arena Trap was.

When I went, I found a particular sight where a green haired boy saved the girl who was trapped under rubble by punching the robot, which got destroyed after a single punch. After he punched the robot, the arm which punched the robot and the legs which made him jump high was broken. Super strength... plus saying it with a 'smash' huh... It's either he's an All Might fan who says All Might's catchphrases when doing an attack or maybe he's related to All Might? Maybe both?

At the end of the exam, an old woman came and started treating those who are injured. Since I was not injured, I did not need to stay for any check ups. I left the Examination Centre and decided to return to my apartment. I just had to wait for a month for the result.

While I was waiting for the result, I found a part-time job at a gym so that it wouldn't be suspicious that I am receiving money from All for One. My co-workers were pretty nice, so I got along well with them. A month has passed and today, a letter will be delivered to my apartment to tell me whether I passed or failed. I had gotten 2nd place, 4 points below the 1st place Katsuki Bakugo for the practical. As for written, I scored 50 in all the subjects since from what I read from the internet, it was the minimum passing mark. It's normal for students to get 50s right? Thus, I have been accepted into the school by doing the bare minimum.

Next week will be the start of my highschool life and my mission. Better make the most out of this opportunity.

Chapter 2

Reads: 1904 | Votes: 81 | Comments: 44

Kiyotaka POV

I arrived early at school and went to my class- Class 1-A. I was the earliest to reach, so I looked out the window. (In this FF, I made Mineta sit at the front of the class, and Kiyo at the protagonist seat, which was Momo's original place in the anime. Momo will be in Mineta's original seat which is in front of him.) A few minutes later, two students started arguing.

"Remove your foot from that desk! Such an action is insulting to those who came to UA before us as well as the craftmen who made the desk." A tall bespectacled male said.

"Like I care. What middle school are you from, you extra?" A blonde delinquent looking male retorted.

"I am from Somei private academy. My name is Tenya Iida." The male said while doing weird hand gestures.

"Somei? A stuck-up elitist then? I should blow you up to bits."

"You're awful. Do you really want to be a hero?" Iida said.

He then turned towards the door where a green haired student was standing. Iida went to greet him. They were pretty noisy. A moment later, another girl joined their conversation. While they were talking, a man in a sleeping bag appeared behind them, which they noticed a minute later and screamed in surprise.

"I'm your homeroom teacher, Shota Aizawa. Pleased to meet you." He said in a bored tone. Pro Hero Eraser Head, quirk erase, able to erase quirks until he blinks. I analyzed him. He looked like a worn put man and talked like he was very unmotivated.

"Get changed into your gym clothes and head out to the grounds. Quickly now."

Everyone then quickly changed into their gym clothes and arrived at where we are supposed to assemble at.

"Now I will take a test of your quirks." Aizawa said, but he looked at me for a moment.

"A test of our quirks?" Mumbles can be heard. "What about our entrance ceremony and guidance session?"

"No time to waste on that stuff if you want to become heroes." Aizawa said sternly. He was kind of right though, since entrance ceremony will be boring in my opinion, and I bet that most students will fall asleep.

"UA is known as 'freestyle' educational system. That applies to us teachers as well. You guys will be doing soft ball throwing, standing long jump, endurance running, grip strength, side to side stepping, upper body training, seated toe touch. You can use your quirks in these gym tests. This country still insists on the prohibition of quirks when calculating averages of those records. It's not rational. The department of education is just procrastinating." Aizawa explained. "Bakugo. How far could you throw in middle school?"

"Sixty-seven meters." He said.

"Great. Now try it with your quirks. Do whatever you need to. Just do whatever you need to. Just don't leave the circle. Give it all you got."

"SHI-NEEE!!!" Bakugo yelled out as he entered the circle and threw the ball with all his might and combining it with his explosion.

"It's important to know our limits. That's the first rational step to figuring what kind of heroes you want to be." He said as he showed us Bakugo's result.

"705 meters? Seriously?"

"Whoa this is awesome."

"So we can use our quirks for real? Man, being a hero is great."

The class erupted into an uproar after listening to Aizawa and seeing Bakugo's score.

"Awesome you say? You're hoping to become heroes after three years here and you think it's all fun and games? Let me tell you this. The one who scored the lowest when all eight events results combined will be expelled. Your fates are in our hands. Welcome to the hero course of UA."

While Aizawa's words are cruel, he said the truth that the entrance test is not a rational thing.

Students started complaining at Aizawa's words.

"Natural disasters, highway pileups, rampaging villains... Calamity is always right around the corner. Life is never fair and heroes are the ones who correct all that unfairness. UA will push you past your limits. That's Plus Ultra. Use your strengths to overcome it all. So bring it. The demonstration is now over. Now it's for real." Aizawa explain.

To claim that heroes correct unfairness, that is just a mere fantasy. In this world, creating a society where everything is fair is an impossible task.

Everyone got serious after Aizawa's speech.

Since I am 'quirkless', I have to work harder to not be at the bottom. I threw the ball with all my might and got 174.5m which would be really good if everyone was quirkless. I got 120 for grip strength, 5. 5s for 50m sprint, 3.2m for standing long jump and average for the rest of the test.

"Midoriya isn't doing very well." Iida said, referring to the green haired male.

"Duh. He is a quirkless runt." Bakugo sneered. Quirkless*? He showed super strength in the entrance exam. Don't tell me...?*

"Quirkless? So you haven't heard about his feats during the entrance exam?" Iida questioned. I looked around. That was when I spotted him. All Might. So my speculation was about right huh? Midoriya got his quirk from All Might.

I looked back at Midoriya, who threw the ball but it fell short. In which Aizawa told that he had erased his quirk. He once again told Midoriya to throw the ball. This time, he managed to throw too high, but his fingers were swollen. Looks like his body cannot keep up with his quirk.

"What the hell? Explain yourself Deku." Bakgo demanded.

After the test was over, he showed us the scores. I got 6th place.

"Also, I was lying about expelling someone. That was an excuse to make you all do your best." Aizawa added, which made the rest looked shocked. "Anyway, we're done here. We are heading back to class."

After that, he told Midoriya to have recovery girl fix him up and told us that the next trials aren't going to be any easier. After that, I went to my apartment.

"I have got information." I told All for One. "All Might most probably have a successor. If I did not get the information wrong, his successor is most likely Midoriya Izuku."

The next day

In the morning we have morning classes, which was pretty boring. At lunchtime, we could eat well cooked food at a really cheap price in the cafeteria. In the afternoon, everyone got excited because in afternoon classes we have basic hero training.

"I have come through the door, like normal!" All might announced. Seeing All Might in the flesh in front of them, everyone got really excited and began talking about him.

"It's All Might! He's really gonna teach us!"

"That's his silver age costume."

"So awesome!"

"For Hero basic training, the class will be put through all sorts of training to mold you into heroes!! Today's activity is Battle training!!" All Might said in his lively tone. We were told to wear our costumes to accommodate our quirks and come to ground beta. For my costume, I had black gauntlets built to prevent my hand from taking damage if I punched something hard. For the rest, I wore black and red biker jacket, a normal black shirt and black combat pants and boots.

Once we reached Ground Beta, All Might greeted,

"It's time for battle training!! Shall we begin, my wards?!"

"Sensei! This appears to be the same field used in the entrance exam. Will we once again be performing cityscape maneuvers?!" Iida asked.

"Nope! You'll be moving on to step two! Indoor anti-personnel battle training!! Villain battles are most commonly seen outdoors but... Statistically, the most heinous villains are more likely to appear indoors. Between confinement, house arrest and market deals... in this hero-filled society of ours, the cleverest villains out there lurk indoors!! You'll now be split into villain teams and hero teams. Since we have 21 students, there will be one two vs three battle!" Let's just hope I get to be a villain.

"So no basic training?" A frog girl asked.

"Practical experiences teaches you the basics! The distinction here is that you won't be fighting disposable robots."

Students started asking questions.

"What determines victory?"

"Can I blast everyone away?"

"Are you planning to expel someone, like Aizawa sensei did?"

"How do we divide ourselves into teams?"

"How fabulous is my cape?" (Koenji's less muscular version)

"One at a time! My quirk isn't super hearing!!" All might said.

"Listen up!! The villains will be hiding the nuclear weapon in the hideout, and the heroes have to go and take care of it!" All might announced while reading it out from a cheat sheet. "The heroes have a limited amount of time to capture the villains or secure the weapon. The villains must either capture the heroes or protect the weapon until time is up. Your battle partners will be decided by... drawing lots!"

"Is that really the best way?!" Iida asked.

"Make sense because pros often have to team up with heroes from other agencies on the spot during emergencies." Midoriya explained.

"I see! I apologize for getting ahead from myself... my mistake!"

"It's fine!! Let's just get into it!!" All Might exclaimed.

The teams (A slight change is made):

A) Midoriya and Uraraka (Hero)

B) Todoroki and Shoji (Hero)

C) Yaoyorozu, Kaminari and Mineta (Villain)

D) Bakugo and Iida (Villain)

E) Mina and Aoyama (Hero)

F) Sato and Koda (Villain)

G) Jiro and me (Hero)

H) Tokoyami and Asui (Hero)

I) Ojiro and Toru (Villain)

J) Kirishima and Sero (Hero)

The opponents:

1)A vs D

2)B vs I

3)G vs C

4)E vs J

5)F vs H

For the first battle, Midoriya's team had beaten Bakugo's, but at a price where him and Uraraka on the ground.

"I'd say the VIP in this battle was Iida!!" All Might announced.

"Not Ochako or Midoriya even if they won?" Asui asked.

"I wonder why? Anyone know?!"

"I do, All Might." The ponytail girl, Yaoyorozu answered. "It's because Iida was most adapted to the scenario. From what I saw, Bakugo's every action was motivated by an obvious personal grudge. As you have mentioned before, sensei, using destructive attacks indoors is foolish. Midoriya's performance suffered from the same faults. Uraraka lost focus halfway through, and her final attack was far too haphazard. Such an attack would be unthinkable if the nuclear weapon were real. However, Iida formed an actual counter strategy and envisioned what the actual struggle will be like. He was only too late in reacting at the very end. The hero team only won because this exercise has exploitable constraints."

Everyone just stood in silence hearing her explanation.

"I-I'd also add that Iida was too stiff but yes you are right!" All Might said, stunned.

"We've got to start at the bottom and work up! If we don't earnestly cheer each other on... We'll never be top heroes!" She said.

The next battle continued with Todoroki singlehandedly destroyed the opposing team. He's pretty good...

Next, it was my team vs Yaoyorozu's team. I turned to Jiro, who was my partner for the exercise.

"Jiro, use your earphones to track were the opponents are, and tell me what they are doing as preparation." I told her, which she did as told.

"They are sealing the doors shut at 4th Floor on the right room. Probably to prevent us from getting through."

"Got it." I went with her too outside the door where Yaoyorozu's team was.

I just broke the door down. Why? That's because I don't like putting more effort than I have to and took the easiest way in.

Seeing me destroying the door, Kaminari tried to shoot lightning at me but I was already in front of him and slammed my knee into his stomach, making him bend over in pain, after that, I finished him off with an axe kick. Seeing me take Kaminari down, Mineta used the balls from his head to bounce around me at quite high speeds. As he was about to hit me, I turned to his direction and raised my fist.

"...Have enough fun?" What happened next was completely unexpected...

Since he could not stop himself in time, his crotch landed on the knuckle my fist.

"Oh. Sorry about that." I apologized to him as he collapsed onto the ground screaming out in pain with foam coming out of his mouth and clutching his crotch.

Yaoyorozu and Jiro covered their mouth to keep their laughter in. Deciding to end his misery, I stomped on his face, knocking him out.

After getting over the hilarious moment, Yaoyorozu created a metal rod. She kept swinging it at me, which I kept dodging. I could have dragged it out longer, but decided to stop playing with her. I grabbed her throat and slammed her onto the ground, knocking her out.

Since I already defeated them, I just touched the weapon, signaling my win. After another fifty minutes, all the other matches were completed.

"Well done everyone!! No serious injuries other than Midoriya's... and also Mineta's! You guys did well in the exercises despite it being your first training! Now change back and head back to class!

After that, All Might hurriedly rushed off. We changed out of our costumes and headed back to class for the remaining afternoon class. After class ended, I immediately left to go back home.

That evening: Villains hideout

"It is as Lucifer had confirmed. All Might is now a teacher. According to him, All Might may be raising his successor there." Kurogiri said as he placed a newspaper on the table.

"Hmm. Now what would happen...if villains killed the symbol of peace?" Shigaraki wondered deviously.

A/N

Quick question. Since now Class A has 21 students, (And no, I'm not letting Mineta die or expel yet because idk if it would change the story line, plus I wanna make him suffer or something like that.) Should I add an OC to balance class B?

Female or male if okay?

Chapter 3

Reads: 1741 | Votes: 75 | Comments: 45

Kiyotaka POV

The news that All Might had come to teach at UA had shocked the whole country. The media uproar went on for several days. For two days, the reporters had been waiting at the entrance of UA trying to find out more about what All Might was like teaching.

The moment I reached the entrance of school, I spotted many reporters outside UA. They seemed to be questioning students and teachers alike about All Might. I also sensed Shigaraki's presence nearby. Looks like he's going to create some chaos soon. What a pain... Since I hate attention, I willed myself to weaken my presence and walked through the entrance.

When I entered the classroom, I was the earliest. I guess that the others aren't able to enter the school due to the reporters out there... after more than half an hour of waiting, my classmates started streaming into class.

"Now, on to homeroom business... Sorry about the sudden announcement, but today..." Aizawa paused, which create tension. "You'll pick a class president."

"Such a normal school-like thing!!" My classmates looked surprised. All of a sudden, the class broke into chaos with everyone aside from me trying to appeal for class president.

"Quiet down everyone!!" Iida yelled loudly to get everyone's attention. Looks like he is the one who wanted to be the class pres the most... "Leading the many is a task of heavy responsibility! But ambition does not equate to ability!! This sacred office demands the trust of its constituents...! If this is to be a democracy, then I put forward the motion... That our true leader must be chosen by election!!"

"This is just a classroom!! Not Congress!!" Most of my classmates sweat dropped.

"But Iida, we haven't known each other long enough to build any trust." Asui said.

"And everyone'll vote for themselves!" Kirishima continued over Asui's speech.

"That's precisely why anyone who earn the most votes... will be best suited for the job!" Iida explained before looking to Aizawa for his reply.

"Just do it quick." Aizawa replied as he got into his sleeping bag.

sigh Looks like everyone is going to either vote for themselves or their friends. From what I have seen, they all just wants to be class president themselves. Who should I vote... nevermind, I've got my answer. With that, I wrote my answer down.

A few minutes later, the results were shown, which showed everyone's vote. The one with the most votes was Midoriya with 3 of them, while the vice-president was Yaoyorozu with 2 votes.

"What the! Who the hell voted for that shitty Deku?!" Bakugo exclaimed. At the corner of my eye, I saw Uraraka turned away and whistled.

"Zero votes... I thought as much!! This is the harsh reality of this sacred office..!" Iida said in frustration and disappointment.

"By the way..." Kirishima said, looking at the votes. "Who voted for... nobody?" Everybody looked at the board in shock, and started murmuring. After a moment of silence, Aizawa got out of his sleeping bag and announced,

"Fine. So your president's Midoriya and your vice president's Yaoyorozu." People started talking excitedly about how they were suited for the job. I looked towards Iida who was still looking disappointed.

As we were released for break, Midoriya tried asking me if I wanted to join them, which I rejected. I brought out the bento which I had prepared in the morning and search the school for a quiet place to eat. After 5 minutes of searching, I finally found a garden which was empty. I sat down on a bench and started eating my food.

Just as I finished my food, I heard an alarm rang. Curious about the alarm, I walked to find the source of commotion. After a bit of walking, I looked around and saw that near the entrance, the reporters this morning had entered, or more accurately, trespassed into the school. How did they enter the school... was it Shigaraki?

My thoughts were confirmed when I saw what happened to the gates. A while later, the police arrived and the reporters were driven away.

In class, Midoriya all of a sudden told the class that he would be stepping down as class president and gave it to Iida, who accepted it gratefully.

The next week: 12.50pm

"Now for today's basic hero training... This time, All Might, myself and one other will supervise." From what I had foreseen with my time quirk last night, the third teacher would be Thirteen, and also the LoV will be attacking at an area in UA called 'USJ', which we were supposed to be headed soon.

Kurogiri said that Shigaraki planned to attack today. If things don't go wrong, the LoV should be able to take on All Might and the teachers with the information I had given them. That's right, I had analyzed the all the UA teachers' quirks, habits, fight style and all of their weaknesses and gave it to Kurogiri, who I trust the information with the most.

"Today, we will be doing rescue training! Which will help prepare you for disaster relief, from fires to floods." Aizawa announced. People started to talk with each other excitedly, which was silenced from Aizawa's glare. Continuing from where he stopped, he told us to put on our hero costumes.

When we got two the bus parking lot, Iida blew a whistle to gain everyone's attention, and got all serious about where to seat, only to get embarrassed since he mistook the type of bus. Since I had nothing to do, I put on some headphones and closed my eyes.

I vaguely heard my classmates' discussion about their quirks, which somehow got Bakugo involved and teased.

As soon as we reached the USJ, I sent Kurogiri the location. What was considered lucky was that Thirteen took quite long to explain about what we were going to do, quirk uses in disaster situations and other stuff that I already knew. I suddenly felt a shift in the air. About time.

As soon as Kurogiri's portal appeared, Shigaraki walked through the portal with villains following after him.

"Huddle up and don't move!!" Aizawa shouted loudly, which was the first time I heard him raise his voice. "Thirteen!! Protect the students."

"What the heck's that?! More battle robots? Like during the entrance exam?" Questions were asked from students.

"Don't move. Those are villains!"

"Thirteen... and Eraser Head, is it...? According to the staff schedule I received, All Might is supposed to be here..." Kurogiri said ominously.

"Of course. That whole incident was this scum's doing." Aizawa gritted his teeth.

"Where is he...? We've come all this way. And brought so many playmates... All Might... the symbol of peace... Is he here...?" Shigaraki snarled. "I wonder if some dead kids would bring him here?"

"Villlains?! No way!! What villains'd be dumb enough to sneak into a school for heroes?" My classmates asked as they panicked.

"Sensei aren't there intruder sensors?" Yaoyorozu asked.

"Yes, of course there are...!" Thirteen answered.

"Are they only here at the main building...? Either way, if the sensors aren't working... It has to be one of their quirks that's doing it. This place is far from the campus. And they picked a time when there'd be a few people here... So maybe they're not as dumb as they seem. They must have an objective. Because this is a well-coordinated sneak attack." Todoroki analyzed. Well we could attack there, but knowing Shigaraki as he is now, that would go badly and need me involve, which on the downside, makes me suspicious since I would not be with the class. So here is the best place to attack. Hopefully Shigaraki won't mess this situation up.

"Thirteen! Begin evacuation! Try calling the school! One of these villains must be jamming the sensors. There's a good chance their electric types is causing the interference." Aizawa ordered. "Kaminari try using your quirk to signal for help."

"Got it!" Kaminari complied.

"But Sensei, you can't fight them all alone!! Against that many... Even you can't nullify all their quirks!! As Eraser head, your fighting style involves eraser and quick binding capture. Head-on battle isn't..." Midoriya cried.

"No good hero is a one-trick pony. Thirteen! Take care of them." Aizawa firmly told Thirteen before leaping into the fray.

"Range squad. Let's move."

"Our intel said it was just supposed to be Thirteen and All Might!! So who's this?!"

"Dunno! But he's coming at us alone."

"A dead fool, then!!"

I could hear the villains' interactions, which made me mentally face palm. They already messed up. What the hell.

"Huh? I can't shoot..." Yeah. They messed up real time. What a waste of money since they are going to be captured. Oh well, once this is over,

I will kill them.

Eraser Head bind them up and slammed their heads together as they panicked.

"That's Eraser Head!!"

"You dumbasses!! He can cancel out your quirks just by looking at ya."

"He can cancel quirks?! Heh heh heh. Let's see if that trick works against us heteromorphic types!!" A big built villain cackled.

"No it doesn't. Only against operative or transformative types. However, statistically, guys like you tend to shine in close quarter combat." Aizawa said as he punched the villain in the face. As the villain starts to fall, Aizawa bound his leg, while dodging a punch by another villain, finishing a whole group of villains up by throwing the bound villain at them. "Which is why I've got counter-measures for you."

"He's good at hand-to-hand... and those goggles hide his eyes, so we don't know whose quirk he's canceling. Even a whole mob of us isn't slowing him down... I see. I hate pro heroes. Ordinary villains don't stand a chance against them." Shigaraki muttered.

"Wow...! He can hold his own even while outnumbered." Midoriya looked on in awe.

"This is no time for analysis! Hurry up and evacuate!" Iida scolded.

"I won't allow that." Kurogiri said as he warped in front of us while my classmates were evacuating. Well technically I am, but I was just playing along. "Greetings. We are the League of Villains. Forgive our audacity, but... today, we've come here to UA Highschool- this bastion of heroism to end the life of All Might, the symbol of peace." Talk about dramatic. For the past 3 days, he had been practicing this speech, which he copied the way of speech from a movie.

As Kurogiri was about to warp everyone, Bakugo and Kirishima tried attacking him, which their attacks almost hit his weak spot.

"That was close... yes... students though you may be, you are the best of the best." Kurogiri praised.

"No, get back! Both of you!" Thirteen yelled in warning.

"Begone. Writhe in torment. Until you breathe your last." Kurogiri dramatically said. Before he warped me, I told him.

"Hey Kurogiri, warp me some popcorns too."

He warped me to the mountain area, far away from Todoroki and Hagakure (He sensed her presence), with popcorn and coke.

Now let's sit back and enjoy the show, shall we?

Timeskip

While eating my popcorn, I watched my classmates struggle in their fight in the respective zones. They managed to overcome the villains, which was pretty good considering they are new. However... They are too naïve.

Just as Shigaraki was about to kill Midoriya, Mineta and Asui, the door at the front of USJ was bashed open.

"FEAR NOT. I AM HERE." Instead of his usual smile, I could see All Might's face contort in anger.

"Ah. Looks like it's to be continued." Shigaraki glared at All Might. "I've been waiting, hero. You're worthless trash."

Upon seeing All Might in person, most of the villains hesitated, but attacked him afterwards. They did not even stand a chance, and were easily taken down. Before Shigaraki and All for One's experiment, the Nomu, could react, All Might already took his allies to safety while punching Shigaraki's hand-mask off.

"Throwing punches to save people... Hahaha. That's our sponsored violence. You are fast. Too fast to keep up with, but not as fast as I expected. Could it really be true...?" Shigaraki snickered as he put his hand-mask back on his face. "That you are getting weaker...?"

Midoriya tries to warn All Might of the Nomu, but All Might told him he could handle it.

"CAROLINA SMASH!!" All Might tried to cross-chop Shigaraki but was blocked by Nomu.

"Seriously?" All Might said incredulously as he punched Nomu again. "No affect at all?!"

"No effect. Because he has shock absorption. If you want to really damage Nomu... you'd better off slowly ripping him apart piece by piece... not that he'll give you that chance." Shigaraki explained.

"Thanks for the info. Appreciate it!! No sweat!!" All Might mockingly said as he did a suplex on the Nomu. The rest of my classmates cheered for All Might.

"Hghhh!! So that's how it is...!!" All Might coughed out blood as Nomu's sharp fingers pierced through his sides.

"So you hoped to drive him into the concrete to seal his movements? It wouldn't have worked. Nomu is as powerful as you. Well done, Kurogiri. Perfect timing, really." Shigaraki cackled.

Just as Kurogiri was closing his gate on All Might, Midoriya rushed at him,

"ALL MIGHT!!" He screamed with tears in his eyes. Just as Kurogiri was about to kill Midoriya, Bakugo attacked him by exploding the metal brace on his neck, which was Kurogiri's weak spot.

"Get the hell outta here!! Deku!!" He shouted at Midoriya as he slammed Kurogiri onto the ground. As he did that, ice also froze the Nomu. Kirishima tried attacking Shigaraki, but he dodged.

"So I heard you people are here to kill All Might." Todoroki said. Looks like those pawns told him the idea. I will deal with them later... "But scum like you could never kill the symbol of peace."

Thanks to Todoroki's ice attack, All Might managed to break out of Nomu's grip.

"You've pinned down our way out... Well... This is a problem..." Shigaraki glared at Bakugo. "Nomu. Take out the explosive brat. We need our escape route back." Nomu broke out of the ice and regenerated.

"What the?! I thought his quirk was shock absorption." All Might look on in surprise.

"I don't remember saying that's all he can do. This is hyper regeneration. Nomu is a super powered living sandbag to withstand everything you've got." Shigaraki boasted. Before Nomu hit Bakugo, All Might pushed him out of the way and let himself get hit.

"This guy doesn't know how to hold back..." All Might spat out more blood.

"Anything to save a comrade, right? Just like earlier when the plain green hair came at me with everything he had. Violence in the name of others is admirable isn't it, hero? You know what, All Might? That pisses me off! Heroes and villains both thrive on violence, but we are categorized. "You are good." "You are evil." That's how it is. Symbol of peace hah!! In the end, you're just here for violence to keep us down! And violence only breeds more violence. I'll show the world that by killing you!" Shigaraki said.

"What a load of bullshit. Idealistic criminals have a different sort of fire in their eyes. But you are just enjoying yourself, you big liar." All Might retorted.

"You got me." Shigaraki admitted. Both sides began to discuss their plan. Well, more like All Might is trying to get the rest to go to safety.

All Might charged at Nomu, and the two clashed fists, bringing it to a head-on assault.

"It's absorption, not negation!! So he must have a limit no?! Built to counter me you say?! Made to withstand everything I've got?! Then I'll go beyond that!! A hero's always ready to smash through trouble. Tell me villain. Do you know the meaning of... PLUS ULTRA?!!" All Might yelled out as he punched Nomu for more than 300 times, before sending it flying off, through the USJ ceiling with a last punch.

My other classmates looked on in awe at All Might's power.

"Yep. I'm slowing down. In my heyday, 5 of those punches would be enough. But that was over 300 hits just now. Well, villain. How about we hurry up and finish this?" All Might taunted, but I can tell he was faking that he can still fight. Most likely he was buying time. Both villains were now wary of All Might, but after several discussions, they agreed on one thing: To attack All Might together since there's a chance All Might was bluffing.

Shigaraki and Kurogiri charged at All Might to take him down. However, Midoriya leapt at them, ready to punch the two. "Get away from All Might!!" He yelled.

Just as Shigaraki was about to turn Midoriya into dust by touching him, his hand got shot. It wasn't just him, but also the rest of the villains, though they weren't shot in vital places.

"Ahhh, they're here... game over. Guess we gotta try again another time, Kurogiri..." As Shigaraki got into the portal, he was shot a few more times. Thirteen tried to suck Kurogiri up, only for him to teleport away at the last moment. Not before Shigaraki left his last words though.

"I may have failed here, symbol of peace... but the next time we meet, you're dead All Might."

What the pros had to face. What they're up against, the class confronted it early. However, they did not know that this attack would be the start of another incident to come.

The teachers were talking in disappointment that the villains fled, which I got annoyed at since they viewed the attack as entertainment instead of taking it seriously, and watching out for students. It was only after the Principal said so, which brought them back to reality. I looked in All Might's direction. So that is All Might's true form huh...? If the media knows about it, the country will be in uproar. As Kirishima ran to All Might to help him, Cementoss blocked his view by creating walls.

Since we still have class after this, I had to buy some time to get myself alone to kill the tools used today to remove evidence. After all, those tools weren't very useful and need to be disposed of before it causes more trouble.

I fractured my arm, in which a while later, I had to go to the infirmary. After my checkup was done, I slowed down the overall time and went to where all the villains were kept. I wore my villain costume and went to them.

"Who are-" The 5 officers who spotted me did not have time to finish their sentence before I sliced off their heads with my bare hands. Three officers charged at me, which I slammed two of their heads together and did a heel smash on the third's head, breaking the third's skull and killing him. After that, I ripped the other two officers' heads off. With all the officers dead, I entered the truck where they kept all the capture villains at.

"I guess I should say, 'don't blame yourselves. You were useful to the League.'" I walked towards them while drawing out two hidden swords in my villain costume. Since the Nomu can't speak, the only people I have to take out are the rest of the captured villains.

"Please!! Have mercy on us Luci-" The next thing that happened was their blood splattering all over the truck floor. Once I dealt with the broken tools, I threw the police bodies in the truck and dropped a lighted matchstick into the truck and locked the back of the truck with a pin I kept with me. After I was done, I pressed a hidden button on my costume, which transformed to my normal school uniform. The thing that allows me to wear my villain costume was the chain necklace on my neck which All for One had given me last year as a present. It would only activate from my touch as it tracks fingerprints to transform. Advancement in technology sure is amazing...

"That was already mercy, since I don't have time to deal with you guys. If I could, I would have tortured you guys a bit more."

Since I already knew there were no surveillance camera in the area, I was safe. After that, I deactivated my quirk and ran to class to not delay class any longer. Not before I texted Kurogiri that I had taken care of the evidence already.

A/N

For the sports festival, should I make Kiyo tackle the Calvary battle solo and defeat all the teams on his own, or should I make an OC who is another villain spy and have them pair up?

Chapter 4

Reads: 1639 | Votes: 75 | Comments: 38

Kiyotaka pov

Classes were cancelled the next day due to the recent incident at USJ.

"Everyone!! Morning homeroom's about to begin. To your seats!!" Iida yelled from the front of the class.

"We're sitting. You're the only one up." Sero stated. As Iida went back to his seat, the classroom door slid open.

"Morning." Aizawa, who is covered in bandages like a mummy, greeted.

Everyone was shocked of his appearance since he was badly hurt in the USJ and my classmates started asking about his injuries.

"My welfare isn't important. Because your fight is far from over." Aizawa shrugged of their concern.

"Our fight?"

"Don't tell me..."

"More villains?!" My classmates looked concerned.

"UA's sport festival is fast approaching!" Aizawa announced, which made my classmates sigh in relief.

"That's so totally ordinary!"

Yesterday: Conference room

3rd POV

"The one called Shigaraki... his quirk allows him to disintegrate anything he touches... We've been through the list of men in their thirties in the quirk registry... with no luck. Nothing turned up on the warp gate user, Kurogiri either. Neither is registered, and both are using alias. Their quirks aren't on record, making them members of the underworld." Detective Tsukauchi told the staffs of UA. "Furthermore, after the capture of the villains, we found out that they were all killed, along with the policemen with them. All of them were burned to ash in a truck."

"What?!" Everyone looked shocked.

"After I checked on everyone's safety, I went back to where we parked our cars and truck, only to found that the truck was lit on fire. When we checked for victims, we found the ashes of 71 villains and the rest of my men. The only thing left was the Nomu, which was unscathed."

"Does that mean...?" All Might asked.

"Yes. One of the League's member killed them all to not give us evidence or allow us to question gthe villains. Most likely to prevent the leakage of information. Judging by how they were killed, it was not Shigaraki or Kurogiri who killed them. That's for sure."

"..." The entire room was filled with silence and tension that one can hear a pin drop, as they process this information.

"Anyway..." Tsukauchi broke the silence. "Thanks to you heroes, we can focus on our investigation. We'll expand our search and efforts to apprehending the prepetrators."

"A dangerous villain other than those two huh... To be able to sneak into school unnoticed. We should watch out." Principal Nezu said.

Back in Class 1-A

Kiyotaka POV

"Sensei! We just had a villain attack. You sure about this?!" Kirishima asked.

"It's necessary. To demonstrate that U.A.'s crisis management protocols are sound, that's the thinking, apparently. Compared to past years, there'll be five times the police presence. Anyhow, our sports festival is the greatest opportunities you'll get. It's not an event that can be canceled over a few villains."

A few huh? Wonder how long it will take before panic sinks in when you realize that the hero society is about to be destroyed by a few villains.

"Our sports festival is one of Japan's greatest events! The Olympics were once the world's sports festival. The whole country would be whipped into frenzy over them. But as you know, that tradition has shrunk into a shell of its former self... and as far as Japan's concerned, what's taken place of the Olympics is... the U.A. Sports Festival!!" Aizawa announced. The class started chatting excitedly with one another about how the top heroes will be watching as scouts and other related subjects.

Naturally, you'll gain valuable experience and popularity if you're picked by a big-name hero. But your time is limited. Show the pros what you're made up off, and you'll make futures for yourselves. This happens once a year... so you've got three chances. If you're hoping to become a hero, this is an event you can't miss!"

Everybody looked up determined and excited. I wouldn't be so excited if I were you guys... after all, who knows if you guys will get attacked from an unexpected enemy and get humiliated. Let's get slightly serious about this.

At the end of the day, Uraraka was the first one who tried to leave but once she opened the door, there was a crowd in front of the door.

"What's going on?!" Uraraka exclaimed, shocked at the appearance of the crowd.

"No way out! What are they here for?" Mineta complained.

"Scoping out the competition, duh, small fry." Bakugo walked passed him. "Cuz we're the kids who survived the villain attack.

Makes sense they'd want a look before the sports festival. No point though." To the crowd, he glowered, "No point though. Move aside, cannon fodder."

"Can we please not resort to calling those we don't even know 'cannon fodder'?" Iida chided.

I was waiting for the commotion to die down while looking outside the window, when I was called out by a cheerful female voice. Oh no.

"Kiyotaka~" A beautiful girl with red hair called out. This made everyone in the class turned to me. I mean who wouldn't if a really beautiful girl called out to a gloomy guy.

"Ayanokouji you traitor! How did you know such a beauty! That's one of the prettiest girls on campus, Rindo Akashi. (OC, her first name is Akashi)" Mineta yelled at the top of his voice, before he started drooling at the sight of her, especially her well-endowed chest. Don't you dare. I glared at her, which she took it heads on. She is basically the only person unaffected by my real eyes. She sent me a smug smile, which could only mean trouble.

"Oh! He's my lovable childhood friend, even though he rejected me before!" Goodbye peaceful life. Everyone looked shocked at what she said as they slowly turned their heads towards me. Rindo Akashi is a villain like me and was my childhood friend since All for One brought me in. We got along well, but she mostly teases and cause trouble for me and only me. According to All for One who had also taken her in, she only did those to the people she likes. To Tomura, she's ruthless. Yes, I rejected her confession once, but she said she won't give up until I fall for her.

While annoying at times, I got to admire her persistence, but unfortunately, I don't have a heart that can feel affection. Not even to All for One as a parent. That was the reason why I rejected her, to not give her false hope. Her quirk is Esper (Basically like Terrible Tornado from opm). She can control objects, people, read and alter minds according to her wish. Her villain name is Nightshade.

"Y-you did what?!" Mineta yelled, but got I just promptly left the class with my bag while dragging Akashi in tow.

"You know you are going to cause me lots of trouble." I sternly told her, which would not affect her because she is a masochist for me.

"Teehee~" She stuck out her tongue playfully, which earned her a chop from me.

"By the way, what are you doing here? Shouldn't you be in America?" I was curious since she was supposed to be on a mission there, for reasons I was not told.

"Oh! I finished my mission there and All for One told me to enroll here for the same reason as you. Mostly to accompany you though." Damn it All for One! You purposely planned this out didn't you?! You wanted me to suffer with this insufferable idiot?! I was chopped on my head.

"Hey don't call me an idiot. Plus, you are out of character." She pouted. (Oops the fourth wall is broken.) "One more thing, All for One said I am gonna stay with you from now on. So hope you enjoy my company." She said seductively. Curse you, you old sot!

Meanwhile at All for One's location.

"Ah choo!!" All for One sneezed. "Looks like he found out."

Back with Kiyo

"Fine. Let's head back" This is going to be a long three years.

Timeskip

Two weeks have passed, and now it was the U.A sports festival. The whole class was in the waiting room getting ready for the event. Some students were trying to relax by talking to their friends, while others are mentally preparing themselves.

"Is everyone good and ready? The event is about to begin." Iida came and announced. After he said that, Midoriya took a few deep breathes to clear his anxieties. When he calmed down, Todoroki called out to Midoriya and declared in front of the whole class that he will beat him. Most likely because of Midoriya's connection to All Might.

From what I know, Todoroki Shoto is the son of the number 2 hero, Endeavor. One of the worst heroes right now. Endeavor was the number 2 hero since forever due to him never able to beat All Might in any category, outclassed in every way. Most probably, he had train his son to be able to take down All Might, but since Midoriya had connections with the number 1 hero, Todoroki challenged him. In contrast with his hair, Todoroki most likely have two quirks- fire and ice. Since I have only seen him use ice, and a few occasions, heat, I have never seen him use his left, which is most likely his fire side. The reason is most likely that he is rebelling against his father to prove that he could be number 1 with only his ice.

Few moments later, we started heading out in the large stadium. The moment we entered, loud cheers from the audiences could be heard.

"Whoa, what a crowd." Midoriya said nervously.

"And we're expected to put up our best performance we can in front of so many spectators...! I suppose this is one more necessary skill if we hope to become heroes." Iida agreed with his typical hand chopping gestures.

I expected a large number of spectators, but this is more than expected. This sports festival will also be on television. This would be a great way to humiliate those with quirks, and to prove that being quirkless is not useless. I hope that what I do will reduce prejudice between quirkless and those with quirks. Unfortunately, I believe that even if I won, people will think that I am just lucky and wave it off.

A while later, the other classes arrived.

"Now, for the athlete's oath!!" Midnight announced. Should a R-rated hero really be teaching in thee school?

"R-rated hero? Should she really be in highschool?" Tokoyami asked with his hand on his chi- I mean beak. Looks like I'm not the only one who feels that way.

"Pipe down!! Your student representative will be Bakugo Katsuki from class 1-A!!" Well, since he placed first in the entrance exam, this was not surprising. I would not be surprised if he declared war on or provokes everyone, judging by his attitude alone.

"Whaa? It's Kacchan?!" Midoriya was surprised.

"Must be because he placed first in the entrance exam." Sero explained.

"The hero course entrance exam, you mean." A student from the general course said in disgust. So the jealousy and what Bakugo had said to them two weeks ago made them jealous? Not really surprising.

"The athlete's oath... I'm gonna have an indisputable victory!" Bakugo announced. This was not overconfidence, but was to show his determination. As he started walking down, many students jeered at him.

"Now without further delay, let's get to the first event." As Midnight said that, different events for the qualifier started rolling on the screen behind her back, before it stopped at 'Obstacle course'. "It's a race between every member of all eleven classes! The course is a four kilometers lap around the stadium itself! Our school preaches freedom in all things. So as long as you don't go off course, anything is a fair game! Racers to your positions!" Only four Kilometers of obstacle course? I can safely bet that the difficulty is nothing compared to the White Room.

I'm just going to hold back since the next event is going to be one where everyone will have to take down the one in first place or something. If I took first, I would be seen as an easy target with my quirklessness.

Dodging the ice attack from Todoroki, I jogged the course. The first obstacle was the 'Robo Inferno', which I used misdirection to direct the robots' sight onto the other students and got pass the obstacle. The next obstacle was 'The Fall', which the canyon must be trekked across by walking along tightropes. Students who fell are automatically eliminated. This was easily cleared since I have done harder obstacles which are similar to this.

The third obstacle is 'The Minefield' where the field is filled with many landmines, which could be seen clearly. This was to put the first place in a disadvantage. I easily crossed more than fourth fifth of the obstacle at fourth place when I saw Bakugo and Todoroki fighting for first place. As I was close to them, a huge explosion could be heard from behind, and Midoriya sailed in the sky using a metal piece to protect him from the explosion. As he landed, he exploded the ground in front of the two of them, catching them in a mini explosion which stunned them. They recovered quickly and chased Midoriya down after that.

In the end, Midoriya got first place, Todoroki second, and Bakugo third. I could see water droplets falling out of his eyes, most likely out of happiness. As the remaining students arrived, Midnight announced.

"The top 42 will move on. Now onto the next event. I already know what it is, of course. It is... Cavalry Battle!!"

"How are we teaming up exactly?" Asui asked.

"Participants will, on their own, form teams. The rules are fundamentally the same as an ordinary cavalry battle -snag your opponents headbands while guarding your own- but with one exception. The point value will base on your ranking in the last event! The student who took 42 place is worth five points, 41st is ten... get it? But our first place participant is worth ten million points!!" Midnight explained.

Once everyone heard that, everyone turned and looked at Midoriya like he's a prey, while he's sweating like a waterfall.

"As you must have heard countless times since enrolling at U.A., this is plus ultra. After taking first place, Midoriya Izuku has gotten ten million points!" Midnight exclaimed. "This match will last 15 minutes. Each team are determined by its members. The rider will wear the headband displaying the total number of points! Until the match ends, you'll all compete to grab each other's points. Quirks are allowed! You've got 15 minutes! Time to form you teams!"

Akashi offered to join my team, but I rejected her, telling her that I wanted to go solo. Which she complied. I was offered a few times to join up, but hearing that I am quirkless, they ignored me, which was what I wanted them to.

"WHAT IS THIS? CLASS 1-A AYANOKOUJI KIYOTAKA, WHO IS QUIRKLESS IS GOING SOLO? THIS IS THE FIRST TIME THIS HAPPENED. HEY MUMMY MAN, DO YOU THINK THIS STUDENT WILL WIN?" Present Mic asked Aizawa.

"I don't see a chance in him winning. He is quirkless after all. It is normal to have this treatment." Normally, a quirkless person wouldn't be able to win. However...

Timeskip

The whole stadium was quiet. The pro heroes, the teachers, the participants, everyone was shocked at the results.

1) Ayanokouji (10004295)

2) Team Todoroki (0)

3) Team Bakugo (O)

4) Team Shinso (0)

5) Team Midoriya (0)

6) Team Rindo (0)

7) Team Tetsutetsu (0)

8) Team Monoma (0)

9) . (0)

10) . (0)

11) . (0)

12) . (0)

No one except two, the person in question himself, and a girl who was internally grinning and fangirling that person, anticipated that outcome.

Normally, a quirkless person wouldn't be able to win. However, that is only for a normal quirkless person. In my year right now other than Akashi, there isn't a person who can beat me even if I am going easy on them.

A/N

Idk when I'm publishing the next chapter of this fic, but the next chapter would explain what happened. Though it may take a long time due to school stuff and revisions.

I was thinking, what about Kiyo vs Endeavor in Kamino

Hope you enjoy the story even if some parts are OOC, cringey and cliché. Some of you might find the OC annoying, sorry about that.

OC information

Reads: 1742 | Votes: 57 | Comments: 25

Name: Akashi Rindo

Age: 15

(Fake) Quirk: Psychic (She purposely reduce her quirk uses)

Quirk info: Able to read minds and control objects.

Student info: Got in through recommendations.

Likes: Ayanokouji Kiyotaka, loves humiliating her opponents,

macarons, teasing Kiyotaka

Dislikes: All guys except Kiyotaka, arrogant people, insects

Description:

Taken in by All for One at the age of 5. Her father is a government agent, and is a cheater who cheats on her mother all the time. Due to that, her mother turned mad and started to abuse her.
One day, her mother tried to sell her in a black market, but was saved by All for One who killed her mother before she completed the deal.
One of the reasons why she likes annoying Kiyotaka is so that he can feel human warmth and emotions. She don't know the details of his past and won't pry into it, but she knows he has been through a lot to have a lot of darkness in him. Since she first met him, she took a liking to him for unknown reasons (I haven't thought of it yet), which turned into a huge crush and obsession.
After a certain situation that happened, she fell for him hard and confessed to him only to be rejected. While she was upset, she decided she would not give up, and have one goal: To make Kiyotaka to fall for her.
She is a sadist to others but a masochist to Kiyotaka.

Villain name: Nightshade

Quirk: Esper

Quirk info: Able to change her appearance, control people and objects, alter minds and memory, read minds and brainwashing people

(Let's just say that she changed her looks that even though the hair colour is similar, she looks different alright? The first one is her original looks.)

Chapter 5

Reads: 1362 | Votes: 74 | Comments: 71

Kiyotaka POV

Flashback

As everyone began forming their teams, I knew what I have to do. After observing all the participants, Akashi will give me the most trouble. Class B's strategy from what I observed was that they hung back at the previous event, most likely observing our class. Most likely, they will strike when it's the most unexpected moment while the rest are going for the 10000000 points. As for the last one, that guy from Class C with purple hair, also have something up his sleeve.

My plan will be to eliminate Akashi from the match from the start, otherwise things would go bad if this continues to the 3rd event. The rest will be simple. I will let Class B steal the other headbands for me before I take them when they are gloating. After I deal with the rest, the final ones will be Todoroki vs Midoriya. With someone as smart and analytic as Midoriya, he should be able to escape and buy enough time. At the end, Todoroki's team most likely will steal the headband though.

"LET'S GET A BATTLE CRY!! BLOOD BEGETS BLOOD IN THE U.A GRAND MATCH!!" Present Mic announced. "FORMED YOUR TEAMS? MADE YOUR PLANS? TOO BAD IF YOU HAVEN'T11 HERE WE GO!! THE COUNTDOWN TO THIS BATTLE ROYAL!!"

"THREE!!"

"TWO!!"

"ONE!!"

"START!!"

As Present Mic said 'start', as expected, most of the participants went for the 10000000 points. As for me, I went straight for Akashi.

"Ara! So you really went for me Kiyotaka~ Unfortunately I'm not letting you win that easily~" Not answering her, I straight away dashed in front of her to take the headband, and she dodged as expected, but her 'horse' wasn't able to keep up with her agility.

When she fell, I took of her headband and carried her bridal style.

"Ahn~" She purposely make a lewd sound. "How bold, Kiyotaka~" When she said that, I let go, and she dropped to the ground.

"Ow!! How mean!!" She pouted at me, which made her team mates sweat drop at her statement.

"LOOKS LIKE TEAM AKASHI IS ALREADY ELIMINATED!!" Present Mic announced.

"I should get going." I said walking off. After 20 minutes, I managed to steal most of the other headbands without others knowing, which was effective thanks to my training in the White Room and my experience as a villain. The only once left with the headbands are Team Shinso, Team Monoma, Team Bakugo, Team Todoroki and Team Midoriya. I should go for Shinso first since Monoma seems to be able to hold his ground for about at least 5 minutes.

"Sorry about this but..." I told Shinso as I snuck up on him. "I'm taking this." I said as I swiftly pulled his headband off before he could react. From what I observed when I was taking others headband was that he made small talk with his opponent, but when his opponent answers, they stop moving which gives him the opportunity to take their headbands.

"A quirkless like you trying to become a hero? Please, that's just pathetic. Unlike you, people who have quirks are more superior. You don't deserve to be in the hero course. Do you get off looking down on those below you? Does that make you feel good?" He taunted. Unfortunately for you, I don't have a heart for you to manipulate, which makes his quirk useless against me.

"... That maybe so. But you could also blame yourself for your incompetence of not getting into the course." I told him. I spoke no lies, only the cold truth. "Whether people fail or succeed has nothing to do with me."

He smirked, thinking I got caught in his quirk. "Hand over your headbands."

"..." I pretended to get caught in his quirk. As he reached out to get my headband, I tilted my head slightly, making him miss, and swept my feet at the front 'horse', causing a domino effect. Ater that, I told him. "If you want to get to the hero course, prove your worth. Show them you are suitable to be in the course." After I said that, I went to where Monoma and Bakugo was.

"...I guess I should say, thanks for helping me save time and trouble in stealing the headbands." I said to Monoma when he was distracted by Bakugo and stole his headbands. "You were useful for me."

"What?" He said stunned. When Bakugo saw me steal the headbands, he use his explosions to get himself close to me. When he reached at me, tiny explosions flickering in his hands, I smack it away and sent a roundhorse kick to his chest, sending him at Monoma's Team, knocking them down.

Last but not least... Todoroki and Midoriya's Team. As I reached where they was, Iida used a super speed to steal Midoriya's 10000000 points.

"As I said earlier, Midoriya." Iida said. "I'm challenging you."

"...Yes you did." I cut in, taking off all their headbands from Todoroki's team. "But you shouldn't let your guard down too early."

"Damn!" Todoroki cursed, and tried to counter, but I dodged. Unfortunately for them, Iida's engine had stalled temprorary, making it hard for Todoroki's team to move.

"Charge him!" Midoriya yelled, charging at me from behind. Since I was quirkless, their team believed they can get back the points.

"The advantage of being alone is that it makes me more agile and have more mobility." I told them, making them confused. "You still don't get it to you?" I sighed deeply.

Everyone hear thought that everything that happened before I interfered was so far what they had planned, but they couldn't be more wrong.

"Everything that happens in this event was already set on stone the moment I decided to go solo." Dodging the simultaneous attacks from Todoroki's team and Midoriya's team, I told them. "Sorry, I won't let you hit me."

Just as I back stepped, Bakugo tried attacking me from behind.

"Bastard!! I will be getting an indisputable first pla-" Before he could hit me, I dodged at the moment. He was able to change trajectory and tried to explode me when-

"TIMES UP!!" Present Mic announced. "LET'S SEE WHO'S THE TOP 4 TEAMS NOW!!"

Flashback end

The whole stadium was quiet. The pro heroes, the teachers, the participants, everyone was shocked at the results.

1) Ayanokouji (10004295)

2) Team Todoroki (0)

3) Team Bakugo (0)

4) Team Shinso (0)

5) Team Midoriya (0)

6) Team Rindo (0)

7) Team Tetsutetsu (0)

8) Team Monoma (0)

9) . (0)

10) . (0)

11) . (0)

No one except two, the person in question himself, and a girl who was internally grinning and fangirling that person, anticipated that outcome.

Normally, a quirkless person wouldn't be able to win. However, that is only for a normal quirkless person. In my year right now other than Akashi, there isn't a person who can beat me even if I am going easy on them.

"Eh? What's going on?" For the first time, Present Mic's voice wasn't loud. "For the first... for the first time since UA has been founded, there is only one victor in just the second event. Unexpectedly..., it is Kiyotaka Ayanokouji from Class A, who is known to be quirkless."

Mumbles from the crowd can be heard. Most where in disbelief at what they saw. Slowly, all the UA first year participants turned to face me.

All for One's POV

"Ha ha ha!! That's my boy! I should give him something for this hilarious reaction from the other heroes! Maybe I should give him three more quirks!" The heroes' faces must be amusing. Unfortunately, I can't see their reactions.

??? POV

"Oho... So that's where he is... I'm coming for you." I said. After all this years, I've finally found him. "My first and only Masterpiece."

Timeskip

Kiyotaka POV

That night, for some reason, All for One has called for me. Knocking on the door of All for Ones place, the doctor opened the door. "Hello Ujiko, All for One called for me?"

Ujiko is All for One's personal doctor and also the creator of the bioengineered Nomu, and one of his most loyal servants.

"Yes he did. Follow me." Ujiko said, walking off. Following him, he showed me to where All for One was.

"Congratulations on getting first place in the Sports Festival." He said. "I could hear their reactions from the TV, and I must say that it was amusing."

"...Thank you for the compliment."

"Now onto business. The reason I called you here is to give you three quirks as a gift."

"...It won't turn me into a Nomu right?" I asked. Becoming one of those things will be disturbing.

"No, no. You won't." He assured me.

"... I guess I could accept it."

"At first, I was thinking about making you the successor of All for One." He said. "However, you are already almost or is already on my level, so I decided against it and will give it to Tomura instead." I nodded my head. I didn't need All for One. With my original quirk, it was already powerful enough to take out Endeavor. However, the only problem was the lack of offensive power in my fighting and long range.

Putting his hand on my shoulder, his hand glowed. "The first quirk I give you will be the gift of Space Manipulation. With it, you are able to manipulate gravity, create portals or warp gate and vacuum by will. The second quirk I give you will be shock negation. Head on close combat won't work on you. The third quirk will be physical enhancement. It allows you to increase your strength, speed along with your physical activities like vertical jumps just like One for All does for your classmate Izuku Midoriya."

(@Elite_Kiyotaka So I used your idea but changed it slightly if you don't mind.)

After he was done, I felt my whole body feel like burning up.

"It hurts a lot though." All for One warned.

"You warned me too late..." I said, enduring the pain.

"You don't look in pain though." He said, looking at me closely with his hand on his chin like he was thinking. I looked at him. Seriously? That's what you think?

The pain slowly subsided and I felt stronger than before.

"How about testing it on some of the newly created Nomus?" All for One asked.

"...Sure..."

Timeskip

When I reached home, I saw the lights on. When I saw who it was, I tried to ignore her and walked off, but she blocked me.

"Congratulations on your splendid win! Would you like a bath? A dinner? Or wa...ta...shi~?" Akashi asked, dressed in just an apron, making something start rising. Dear god. For the second time, curse you old sot!

Timeskip

Two days after the sports festival, we were all rested up. I read the news on my phone which was posted just after the Sports Festival, which had many people cursing me, saying I cheated and got lucky at the Sports Festival. Of course they are like that. In the eyes of many, quirkless means you are useless. They won't accept a quirkless to be on par with those with powerful quirks.

When I entered school, I heard Midoriya and Iida talking. It was about how Ingenium, Iida's older brother, got attacked by the hero killer and was hospitalized. I went to my seat just as Aizawa entered.

"Morning."

"Good to see your bandages off, Aizawa-sensei." Asui said.

"The old lady's treatment was excessive. But never mind that. Today we got hero informatics class. And a special one at that." When he said that, most of the class tensed up, thinking it was going to be a test. "You'll be coming up with your hero aliases."

"How awesome!! Time to shine!!" The class cheered, but was quickly silenced by Aizawa who glared.

"But first, concerning the pro draft picks I mentioned the other day, it's based on who the pros think will be ready to join the Hero workforce after another year or three years of experience... so you could say that it's a way to show interest in your futures. But there's ample time for their interest to wane before you graduate. And any and all offers can be revoked by the pros. It happens quite often." He said before writing the number of pick totals. As expected, Todoroki and Bakugo got most of it. Under my name, there was 1 pick.

"With that settled, whether you were pick or not... you will have the chance to work with pro heroes. Although they're only tentative, but you might want to pick someone in appropriate..."

"Or else you'll know true hell!!" A new voice cut in. "The name you pick now may be what the world ends up calling you. That's happened to many pros out there."

"Midnight!!" My class looked shocked.

"Midnight here will be assessing the sensibility of the names you pick. I'm no good at that." Aizawa said. "What future do you see for yourself? The name you pick will bring you ever closer to cementing a certain image because names are capable of reflecting one's true character. Like 'All Might'."

After 30 minutes, I was the last one to present my name. What I wrote there was...

"Huh?"

"X?" My classmates looked shocked at my hero name.

"Are you sure, Ayanokouji, that you want to be called 'X'?" Midnight asked.

"Yes."

"Alright, then." After a while, Aizawa handed out the internship draft. What I saw made me shock.

On the paper, it stated: WR Agency. Looks like the Sports Festival brought me some trouble... But what is that man thinking, putting that place in there? I decided to ignore it. And wrote down a random laid back Agency.

At the end of the day, I wore my villain costume and went to the hideout. When I went in, I saw Kurogiri and Tomura injured and the hero killer standing above Tomura with his blade in his shoulder.

"Hey." I said, showing slight darkness in my eyes, drawing the Stain's attention. Sensing my killing intent, he leapt backwards. Before he could react, I was already in front of him, and slammed him into the ground. "Do you really think you could get away injuring them?"

"Strong. You are the first to take me down this quickly. Do you practice some type of martial art?"

"Just piano and calligraphy."

"..." Cricket sounds could be heard.

Sigh "Fine. I will let you go. But next time we cross paths, you're dead. Got it?" I said.

"Fine." He complied with gritted teeth. "Send me to Hosu. I have something I got to take care off."

With that, I used my Space Manipulation quirk to open a portal to Hosu. Once I did that, he went through, and I closed it after him.

"Why did you let him go?" Tomura glared at me.

Sigh "Who said I let him go." I opening a small portal, I combined it with my time quirk, which leads to the future. I reached into it and pulled out a heart from the portal. Seeing it, Tomura asked.

"A heart? What did you do."

"Stain will be killed a week from now, late at night."

A/N

I know that Stain was with the League during the internship, but I changed it to before it for plot convenience.

I apologize if the Calvary battle was anti-climatic because I can't seem to put the initial fight idea into words, so I made it simpler to write. I also apologize if the characters are OOC.

Personally, I felt that this chapter is kinda boring. You could give me some feedback or something so I can see what I can improve and how. You don't have to though.

I'm a bit rusty at this because I haven't wrote this story in a while, but hope you enjoyed the chapter, and thanks for reading!

Chapter 6

Reads: 1609 | Votes: 76 | Comments: 48

A/N

I'm just gonna skip to the Stain vs lida fight since there wasn't really anything important to write about during the internship.

All for One POV

"Sensei, how many Nomu are ready to go?" Tomura asked with slight annoyance. He must be annoyed because he can no longer stand the Hero Killer's rampage.

"None of them are on the same level as the one that attacked U.A with you, but six of them are fully operational at this point." I told him.

"Send them my way."

"Why?"

"Cuz I don't like the Hero Killer. I'm allowed to kill whatever I don't like, right?"

"You can have three... use this opportunity to learn something..." I told him, before sending three Nomu to him and cut off connection. That boy, while he has a lot of potential, he is still immature. His attitude is basically the opposite of Kiyotaka. Ah yes, speaking of Kiyotaka, he has already surpassed me the moment I gave him those three quirks. That boy is a true monster. No. Monster is still an understatement. The word could only be described as godlike.

Flashback

"How about testing it on some of the newly created Nomus?" I asked. As soon as I gave him those quirks, you could feel the aura of power and authority, as if trying to force me to kneel down to him.

"...Sure..." He answered. Using 'warp', I brought him to an open empty area. Once I teleported him there, I warped four Nomu to him, all of them with Hyper regeneration.

"Start!" I said. As soon as I said that, he teleported himself in front of the biggest Nomu and punched it at full power.

"Rocket punch!" He yelled out. How do someone yell in a monotone voice like him? Plus 'Rocket punch'? He's words doesn't match his face even though he joked. However, what shocked me was that the whole area, including the Nomu, was completely obliterated. (Imagine Saitama's Serious punch. That is Kiyo's 100% punch)

I could feel myself trembling under that power. Even All Might himself wasn't that powerful. If I ever face him in a fight, I could more than guarantee I would lose.

Flashback end

Now, as I had finished my talk with Tomura, I left the area to do something of importance. Kiyotaka told me of an annoying pest who offered him an internship to that place a week ago. Now that I am ready, there's only one place to go.

The White Room.

With the connections I have, I managed to find the location of it. Warping myself to the location I was told, I could see that the place lives up to its name, all white. How boring...

I summoned a whole army of Nomu. Yes, I lied to Tomura about the number of Nomu since they were all going to be used for this event. Since the White Room is built to create 'Perfect humans', it wouldn't be safe to underestimate even the weakest White Room child.

"Kill them all. Leave no survivors." (And no. Amasawa isn't in the story so she won't be killed if you are wondering.) This army of Nomu are the strongest of all I made, with a total of 50 Nomu with me now.

Once I said that, the Nomu start to break down those white walls. Start praying, Professor Ayanokouji, your end is near. (@Timmyvoszi I hope you allow me to use your idea of Ayanopapa vs AfO)

Midoriya POV

"SMASH!!" I yelled as I punched the Hero Killer in the face, knocking him away from Iida.

"Midoriya? But why...?!" Iida asked from where he laid on the ground.

"It was on TV...! How 60% of the Hero Killer's victims were discovered around blind corners in deserted areas. So I've been scouring the back Alleys near the Normal hero agency, close to the center of all the trouble looking for you!" I explained. "Can you move?! Make for the main road and get some pros to come help us!"

"I can't move. He cut me... That's likely his quirk..." Iida said.

"They were talking about that. So he needs to cut you to get it to work...?" I asked as I looked around, but caught sight of a hero lying motionless against the wall. Another one...!! If it was just Iida, I might've been able to carry him and run, but...

"Midoriya. Don't interfere. This has nothing to do with you!!" Iida said with gritted teeth.

"What are you saying...?" I asked.

"A friend showed up and says 'I'm here to save you.' A good line for sure." The hero killer unsteadily got back up. "But it's my duty to kill these two. And if we're forced to fight, then naturally... the weaker of us shall be culled." He glared with bloodlust, making my spine chilled.

"Idealistic criminals have a different sort of fire in their eyes." All Might had said that back in USJ. This guy's not like the attackers at USJ... those are the eyes of a killer!! I reached for my phone and sent my location to the class group chat. Even with just a hunch and no proof... I should've persuaded some pros to come with me. Now I need to protect those two who are down. Maybe buy time, or if possible... drive off the Hero Killer myself.

Putting my phone back in my pouch, I got into a fighting stance.

"No!! I told you to run!! This is none of your business!" Iida yelled.

"What's a hero supposed to do when you say things like that? I-I've got a lot to say to you, but that'll have to come later! Because just like All Might said, 'Giving help that's not asked for... is what makes a great hero." I said while forcing a grin, just like my idol, All Might, always does.

Kiyotaka POV

The hero I had interned in had went out for some type of mission when my notification sounded. Checking my messages, I noticed that Midoriya had sent his location. Must be because he found the Hero Killer. I switched off my phone. Nah, too troublesome. I already know the outcome of the battle anyways...

All for One pov

In front of me was a battered man- Professor Ayanokouji, or he's hero name- Emperor, himself. He was strong. Strong enough to last 5 hours in combat against almost my full power and still isn't defeated. I could see how this man was a former number 1 hero and Kiyotaka's biological father.

"I have to say I'm surprised. To think you lasted against me for this long. Unfortunately, I am sure I won't be able to take your quirk until you die, so I will kill you with my ultimate combination of quirks." He continued glaring at me defiantly. "Spring-like limbs, four kinetic boosters, three strength enhancers, a multiplier hypertrophy, rivets... air walk, spear-like bones. The shockwaves until now were meant to wear you down. Not too much oomph, though. Here it comes!"

He's quirk, Counter, only works if he is able to survive the attack. If he does, he can release the same attack at twice its original power. Since he has high endurance, he is able to take so many of my attacks. So, I have to use my full power to instantly kill him. A single mistake and it will be my end. As expected as a former number one hero.

I punched him with my full power, which he dodged. As my giant fist hit the ground, the whole White Room was razed by the power and the shockwaves, blasting the former hero away. As dust cleared, he got back up on his feet.

"So u managed to dodge. However, let's end this. Let's put everything we've got into this last punch, okay?" I dashed towards him using Air Walk. Matching my punch, the shockwave of our power caused the entire mountain around us to explode. "What's wrong, Emperor? Why so silent after all the threats you said when we began fighting?"

"There's nothing I have to say to you, villain." He spat as his fist started getting crushed under mine.

"Oh? Than die full of regrets." Impact recoil. Emperor's hand exploded, and my fist hit him at full force, destroying him instantly and leaving no trace of him. Once I was done, my knees gave up on me. "To think he could push me this far. But... the deed is done. The White Room along with its creator is no more." Kiyotaka, you are now free from your past. Unlike Tomura, I've never seen him as a pawn. He isn't naïve like Tomura. A single mistake on my part if I manipulate him will turn him against me, and that will be the greatest mistake I would ever make...

3rd POV

Sensing something incoming, Gran Torino yelled out. "Get down!!"

"Huh?" Midoriya asked just as a flying Nomu swooped in and grabbed him, and flew back up high. Too fast! Damn... if he gets too high, I can't catch him with my quirk! Grand Torino thought. As the Nomu began flying away, blood from its wound splattered on one of the hero's face. Then-

Lick The now freed Hero Killer licked the blood off the hero's face, making the Nomu paralyzed and starts to fall. As it did, the Hero Killer jump up to it's height and stabbed a hidden knife through it's head, killing it. "Both this sham-filled society and the criminals who wield their power in the name of mischief... are targets of my purge... Haahh...Haahh..." He announced while panting. "All for the sake of a better society."

"Hey, hey, hey! What the heck's he doing?" Shigaraki asked annoyed from the top of a building, looking on using a pair of binoculars. "Why'd he kill my Nomu? And why are those kids there? So many questions, but no answers. Why won't things go my way?"

"He saved the kid?!"

"No, idiot. The boy's a hostage. This is an unrepentant murderer we are talking about." The heroes started chattering.

"Why're you all bunched up together?!" Endeavor yelled as he arrived. "One of them should've headed your way!!" Just then, he caught sight of the Hero Killer. "Wait... is that...?"

"Endeavor..." The Hero Killer growled as he got up, he's mask peeled off.

"Hero Killer!!" Endeavor roared as flames lit up in his hands, ready to attack.

"You fake..." The Hero Killer glared at him with bloodlust. "If I don't fix it... If someone isn't stained with blood...! If I don't reclaim my hero status...!! Come! Just try me, you fakes! The only one allowed to kill me is... All Might, a true hero!!" As soon as those words exited his mouth, blood gushed out of his mouth. After that, blood started splattering all over the floor, and Stain collapsed. What the heroes saw had them shocked.

On Stain's back, there was a huge hole with blood flowing out of it, which was where his heart once was. And now, the world knew that... The Hero Killer is dead, killed late at night.

"Heh heh heh... So that was what Lucifer was talking about..." Shigaraki cackled. No one but them had saw it. The moment the Hero Killer finished his speech, a hand reached out from the portal, pierced through the Hero Killers back, and ripped out his heart in the blink of an eye. "Let's head back."

"Did you receive the results you were hoping for, Tomura Shigaraki?" Kurogiri asked as he opened the portal.

"Idiot. That all depends on tomorrow." Shigaraki said as he entered the portal.

The next day

"..." The whole room was silent as the news played. "No matter where I turn... The Nomu are just an afterthought. Far from forgetting the Hero Killer, now it's like we're the sideshow." Shigaraki snarled.

Location: Staff Room

"That done Izuku Midoriya! Thanks to him, my teaching license was revoked for six months. A pay cut too. But guessed he doesn't have much choice. That's just how it goes. He acts before he thinks just like you, Toshiori!" Gran Torino nagged at All Might on the phone.

"I'm so sorry. Looks like I didn't teach him well." All Might apologized.

"What I'm calling you for, is not about that though... The Hero Killer. I was only around him for a few minutes, but it was more than enough to scare the crap out of me."

"You were frightened, Gran Torino? But he's dead now. What's the problem?"

"What really intimidated me was the overwhelming pressure of his false ideals. Don't get me wrong. I'm not praising the guy. But y'know your whole 'Symbol of Peace' thing? That sense of duty? It was like that. In so many words, it's charisma. Mark my words, people are gonna be influenced by this. Then there's the LoV. The media's already making connections to this League's from 'The gang who attacked U.A and got beaten to their own game' to 'Organization with something to say.' In other words, they're the perfect magnet. The evil of individual thugs isn't much, but when it's united by a single will... It'll become something a hundred times more dangerous. Steadily removing their obstacles... manipulating the whole situation according to their calculations... that way of things..."

"I've had a bad feeling about this..."

"The man who opened the whole in your gut. I think we can assume All for One is back again."

"To think he could survive even after those wounds..."

"...You'd better tell that kid everything. Tell him everything about you and 'One for All'."

Kiyotaka POV

Looks like the plan of letting the Hero Killer go and cause more chaos is taking effect. With the hero's speech taking effect, people will start doubting heroes. Not only that, but all the evil scattered out there will be drawn to the organization people think he is working with 'The League of Villains'.' This will be the best time to get more and stronger members.

It's time for a new era to become. Will the heroes become predator or prey. Soon, the tides will turn and will reveal the winner.

A/N

If you guys are wondering, Todoroki used his left against Stain just like he did in the anime. The reason is that because he was humiliated by Kiyotaka and Midoriya in the Sports Festival during the Calvary Battle, he realized that he can no longer just use his right side.

Sorry for the lack of Ayanokouji parts in this chapter.

I have a question. Who shall Ayanokouji face in the practical exam. Shall it be All Might? Or the Principal? Not sure how to do the Principal one because I'm not smart enough to do it.

Is this chapter all right? I hope you enjoyed it!